'95

The world is not a constant, but an ever-shifting place full of the unexpected. The editors of Sojourn '95 chose to reflect this subject in this year's yearbook. In the pages ahead, we have attempted to present for posterity how change has come to affect not only the world, but the people whose path brings them to Norton High School. Though maybe not as dramatic as global revolutions, the changes here at

Subject

Norton High still leave a great impression on both students and staff.

This year, we witnessed a change in faculty, both the teaching staff and administration. Along with these changes came new policies and fresh ideas. Newcomers to the school must adjust to a totally new environment, while others must prepare to leave the one they have known for so long. We greet many new friends and acquaintances, and must also say a final farewell to others, uncertain whether our paths will ever cross again.

We have changed individually, as well. As we continue to reap memories and experiences, we are shaped and refined, and we learn and grow.

Not even the might of giants can stop the march of time, and so we must continue to change. As we head forth into the future, we anticipate bright and prosperous times, even as we look back upon a montage of memories, some pleasant and others not. We must remember that the only unchanging feature of life is change itself.

Change

It is in this spirit that the editors of Sojourn have produced this yearbook. We hope that you enjoy the product of our hours of labor, and that in the years ahead you can look back upon these pages and remember the way things once were.

World Wide Changes

WORLD CUP

Brazil's offense got all the attention beforehand, but its defense wound up stopping Italy — and winning the World Cup, soccer's ultimate prize. "Defense won the game," Aldair, one of the new heroes, said after the match. "Maybe this will earn Brazilian defenders some recognition."

BASEBALL STRIKE

The 1994 baseball season ended on the 34th day of the major league players strike. The team owners canceled the rest of the season, including the playoffs and the World Series for the first time since 1904. The season floundered on the owners' insistence on capping player salaries. The players refused, went on strike, and in a month the season was history.

WHITE HOUSE PLANE CRASH

Nothing may ever explain for sure why a Maryland trucker, Frank Corder, stole a small plane near Baltimore and crashed it into the White House shortly before 2AM on September 15, 1994. Neither President Clinton nor his family were home when Corder smashed into the South Lawn and the plane burst into flames.

CUBAN REFUGEES

Cuba's boat people, heading north on almost anything that would float, were desperate to come to the United States to escape the poverty and hunger of their Communist island. The U.S. Coast Guard intercepted more than 1,000 of the craft in one day in early September.

CRIME BILL

President Clinton signed a $30 million crime law, but warned his audience at a White House ceremony that the bill would not stop the violence plaguing the nation. The law banned many assault firearms, allowed the death penalty for more federal crimes and provided billions of dollars over six years to build prisons and hire police.

MISS AMERICA 1995

A deaf woman from Alabama became the first contestant with a disability to win the Miss America Pageant. The 68th Miss America was 21-year-old Heather Whitestone. After receiving the crown, she signed "I love you" amidst thunderous applause from the audience at the Atlantic City Convention Center. Her slogan in the competition was "Youth Motivation: Anything is Possible." Whitestone said she didn't think it would be hard for a deaf woman to be Miss America. "I think I'll do it just fine."

RWANDA

The civil war in Rwanda began with a plane crash that killed the president. Before the year was over another 500,000 Rwandans had been killed and another 2 million had fled the African nation for the safety of refugee camps in Zaire and other neighboring countries. Extremists began a series of mass killings that a United Nations panel later characterized as genocide believing that the Tutsis were responsible for the president's death.

HAITI

The United States went to the brink of invading Haiti, its neighbor to the south, but at the last minute Haiti's military rulers bowed to the United Nations and promised to cede power to the elected president whom they had ousted, Jean-Bertrand Aristide. About 21,000 U.S. troops eventually landed on the island. They were followed by an international force charged with keeping the peace until Aristide, who had been in exile in the U.S., could consolidate control.

AGASSI WINS U.S. OPEN

Andre Agassi was one of the best known entrants in the 1994 U.S. Open, but a year of largely indifferent tennis had left him unseeded and unheralded. So everyone was amazed when he won the tournament — including Agassi. "I'm still in a state of shock," he told the crowd at the U.S. Tennis Center. He did it with relative ease, racing through six opponents before a straight set victory in the final.

Deceased

SPACEWALK

A jet-propelled astronaut unhooked his lifelines to the Space Shuttle Discovery and flew free, 150 miles above Earth. It was the first untethered spacewalk in 10 years. Mark Lee (astronaut in photo) was followed by fellow astronaut Carl Meade. The jet pack they wore was designed to be a life preserver for space station crews of the future.

HEALTH CARE REFORM

If the United States truly had a health care crisis in 1994, you couldn't have proved it by Congress. Sentiment for change seemed to be limited to the minority of Americans who lacked health insurance or feared losing it. There was insufficient support in Congress for the Clinton bill, which called for universal coverage.

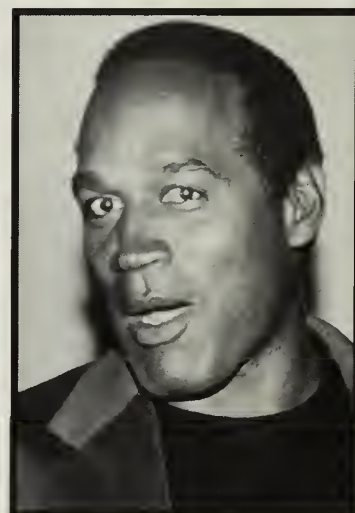

WESTERN FOREST FIRES

Tens of thousands of firefighters fought a summer-long battle against scores of fires that burned more than three million acres of woodlands across the Western states. In California's Sierrita Nevada, exhausted firefighters declared victory on August 24 over the fire that had burned for eight days.

O.J. SIMPSON

The first reports were surprising enough: Simpson was suspected in the brutal murder of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend, Ronald Goldman. So began what many called the most famous murder case in American history.

45 Minute Changes

During physics Everett Downing plays with the properties of torque.

Away from the locker room crowd, Keith Bachand has a little chat with Mr. Kelley about his S.A.T. scores.

"One class is over, another class to go." Jen Beatty contemplates while visiting her locker between classes.

Look at all this attention, I should get injured more often," conveys the expression on Michael Young's face.

Feeling a little trapped? Allan George and Eric Tetreault seem a little too happy being caged up.

"Aaah, biology...the study of life. What could be more interesting?" ponders Amy Venditti.

Presenting in English class is a snap for Amanda Galante, because in that costume she could conquer the world.

During Physics, Jack Coffey verifies that his calculations are correct.

Lunch period appears to be the perfect time for Renee Sayce to question the meaning of life.

During one of Mr. Leddy's Earth Science lectures, he outlines the more important aspects of the class.

Playing the letter bearers, Kristine Newcomb and Sean MacDonald prepare to deliver letters from "Santa's elves" to children at the L.G. Nourse and J.C. Solmonese schools.

By the look on Nikoletta Anifantis's face it's safe to assume that she has had happier days.

It seems that looking through rocks and sediment is fun, especially for Thuy-Anh Nguyen and Mellissa Betts.

Heading through the doors and into the spotlight are Phillip Petrelli and Jason Pierce.

During a Mrs. Hensley's room production of Hamlet Frankie Budweg, Leslie Comperchio and Rachel Weisz-Smith play their various roles for the class.

Service with a Smile

Jobs often play a part of our high school life. Whether it's bagging at Roche Brothers or "flipping burgers" at McDonald's, almost everyone gets the extra cash needed to pay for those 'necessities' by working at a part-time job. Some jobs are more difficult than others, but they are a vital part of a day that accompanies the endless homework and after school activities.

Keeping pace with the rush of customers Lorie DiCarlo helps the next customer in line.

Happy server of the drive-thru, Amy Biron works with a dedicated smile and the desire to please.

During the "Scan-O-Rama" contest, Jared Romanowicz awaits the next customer to stamp and date the receipts.

The Roche Brothers Supermarket seems to be a popular place for earnest workers like Mark Ramos who has the pleasure of "bagging" groceries after school.

Bakery expert Jenn Sireci places scrumptious pastries in containers to be sold and devoured by a lucky Roche Brothers customer.

Taking a little break to refresh herself, Erin Murphy heads for the employee break room.

Cashier Carla Clark combines her job with the bagger's and brings the groceries to her customer.

Eager to serve up the best ice cream in the area, Bekki Moore takes the orders of customers at Sweet'N Crafty.

Greeting customers with a smile is a must for All-Star Video employee Jessica Fahey.

Always there to help out when movie mania hits is Gina Catalfamo.

Assisting customers by offering helpful information is a major part of Lisa Moschella's workday at Roche Brothers.

Taking orders and helping customers is all a part of Penny Sholtzberger's job at McDonald's.

Working in the family business is just part of Nikoletta Anifantis' average pizza making day.

If you are looking for a good meal without having to cook, Erin Mundie and the Roche Brothers kitchen are the ones to see.

Bestowed with the honor of being a member of the 1994 Homecoming Court, Shelby Marrell proudly walks before the crowd with her escort Chris Perry.

Rocking the house, The Legendary Flashlight Lou band brought the crowd to its feet.

"Hey, Grg King, keep your eyes on your own pep-ette!"

"Thrash-er!" Nettie, "Alan George" say more!"

Lancers Rock the House!!!

The spirit of competition not only runs high within the sports teams, but also among the classes at N.H.S.. The '94 Pep Rally made that spirit shine through as the walls were vibrantly decorated, everyone working against the clock to outdo "the Other class". Along with papered walls and rising spirits, entertainment made anticipation sky-rocket for the following day's Homecoming Game and Semi-formal. Win or lose, this pep rally certainly geared enthusiasm for the football players to a record high. Go, Norton Lancers!

Becka Lincoln shows the crowd that the Class of '95 really knows how to jive!

Monica Hubbard vibrates with friends to the tunes of the Legendary Lancers Band.

What better way to get the crowd psyched than by the enthusiastic cheer of Norton High's best spirit footballers?

With a smile to warm a crowd of many, Anna Gracie welcomes the 1994 Homecoming Court.

Bright Lights, Big City

Forty teenagers tromping through New York City dressed in layer upon layer of clothing may not be an everyday sight, but on December 5, 1994, it was a reality. The group traveled by foot down Fifth Avenue from FAO Schwartz to Trump Tower, and on to St. Patrick's Cathedral and continued to the Museum of Modern Art. The United Nations, the Empire State Building, and Battery Park with a view of the Statue of Liberty were just some of the places visited by bus. The beautifully lit

Christmas tree glistening after sunset at Rockefeller Center topped off the fun-filled day. As cameras flashed and videotape rolled throughout the day, so the enthusiasm overflowed from the boarding of the bus at 5:30 a.m. until arrival back at Norton High at midnight. Can't wait 'til next year!

Deirdre Maher and Jolene Edgar enjoy a stroll down Fifth Avenue on a brisk winter's day as Dave Wagner tries to capture the sights for posterity.

At the South Street Seaport Sean MacDonald is getting "hooked up" with a "real" Rolex from the "salesman" with a briefcase.

Outside of the United Nations, most of the "New York-ers for a day" pose for a quick group picture before moving on to the bus and their other destinations.

Inside the U.N., one half of the NHS tourists move up the escalator during the tour being led by the Swedish U.N. tour guide.

A Symphony Of Awards

After a season plagued by long and tiring practices and field shows in all kinds of inclement weather, the Norton bandoes executed a precise "about-face" directly to the Norton Country Club for an evening of shimmering lights, awards, and an outburst of spirit and pride. Nate Eckstrom, band president, kicked off the festivities with an eloquent oration on the impact of the marching band on his high school career and thanked Mr. MacMullen for his kindness and dedication to all. "Sparkles" adorned the faces of every good bandoe, and the room filled with applause and wild shrieks as their fellow band, majorette, and colorguard members were awarded for their outstanding effort during the season. The apex of the evening occurred when the uniform manager and the drum major displayed their "sensational" choral talents with the bandoe rendition of "The Happy, Happy, Joy, Joy Song". The evening drew to an end with lively dancing and singing and a big band hug, a bandoe family tradition.

Some band members choose to "go casual" and others remain formal as they wear the night away on the dance floor.

Dan Rhodes can look forward to facing the winter ahead with his well-deserved band jacket.

Beaming with pride and accomplishment, Kristy Kuplast accepts her trophy from majorette adviser Danielle Sicard.

Harvest Moon

October 22, 1994 was a memorable night for many. After the unfortunate loss against Abington, fans left the field disappointed but thoughts of the football game soon left their minds as they started preparing for the Harvest Moon Semi-formal. Arriving at The Diplomat, students were awed by the dazzling decorations courtesy of the Art Honor Society, and with the help of a cooperative and entertaining D.J., the dancing was continuous and the music kept on pumping. While enjoying hors d'oeuvres, couples anxiously awaited the announcement of the 1994 Homecoming King and Queen, and when the votes were tallied the beaming winners were announced. Congratulations to King Allan George and Queen Shelby Martell and to all those who helped make this night a night to remember!

With a smile in their eyes, Dan Juska and Amy Pereira continue to dance the night away.

A bouquet of flowers is presented to Queen Shelby Martell by King Allan George as part of the homecoming court.

Welcome Aboard Flight

'95-'98!!!

Whether it's rap, heavy metal, alternative, or slow, the music at NHS's dances gets people together. In a friendly atmosphere, problems melt away and differences matter less. Everyone relaxes as the stresses of high school life fade away under the beat and melody of the music. With good friends, food, and friends, everyone can forget their fears and have a good time.

Sisters Sally Pereira, Kelly Iorriano and Lisa Jones take a break from dancing and posing out.

At the Welcome Freshman Dance Dave Jenkins, Dan Anderson, Christine Stearns, Heather O'Neill, and Colleen Doherty create a new dance version for the cameraman.

Freshman Caroline Horton, with Tiffany Sears and Melissa Willis, wait for the music to begin.

"Hold On to the Night"

On May 13, 1994, an exquisite array of heavy flowed across the dance floors of the Holiday Inn at Taunton. Ruffles and lace followed tuxes and bow ties as couples and friends shared laughter and smiles. Organized by the junior class and its advisers, Mr. Dery, Mrs. Hensley, Mr. Laddy, and Mrs. Rital this elegant event proved to be a grand success; a splendid evening enjoyed by all. This enchanting night will indeed be warmly remembered by all.

"Hey, Lewis, turn around, the camera's that way," mimics Sarah Devey to her date as they glide across the dance floor.

With sparkling eyes, Christine Stearns and Brad Walker pause for the camera while waiting for Ann.

"Smile for the camera," says Kiana Kinsman to his date, Sarah Calantre.

The 1994 Prom Court: Shawn Martell, Jennifer Kinsman, Shelby Martell, King Bob Congdon, queen Melanie Kieley, Kaitlyn Mahoney, Janis Martino, and Natalie Talbot.

A growing tradition at Norton High, Honor Society membership is a serious undertaking for those students inducted. Be it Quill and Scroll, National Honor Society, Art Honor Society, or Spanish Honor Society, each student must hold a particular excellence to be accepted. The students must fulfill several hours of community service, provide service to other students, be leaders outside of school as well as in class, and maintain high grades. It is an honor and a pleasure to be in any one of these societies; just ask any of the students involved.

Lighting his candle, Sean MacDonald becomes the newest member of the Art Honor Society.

Because of her Service, Character, Leadership, and Scholarship, Ginny Jerome is inducted into the National Honor Society.

At the Induction, Rebecca Moore receives the various trophies for becoming an Art Honor Society member.

Awaiting the time when she is inducted, Jen Trumbull heads for the stage.

Pages, Pizza, and Picas

In a galaxy far, far away known as the yearbook room, a few rogues stay until all hours of the night before leaving. While in this mysterious galaxy, the rogues attempt to complete the pages eagerly awaited by the Empress. Two, three or...four days a week the dedicated yearbook editors and staff gather to try and turn out something worth reading.

When many of these yearbook "rogues", including the Empress, become tired and irritable, they engage in the ever-popular "Rank-fest". While in a rank-fest everyone relaxes and calms down and then returns to their mission, that mission is to get the work done and done on time to keep the Empress happy.

During the six months it took to create this yearbook you see before you, many hours were spent working, writing, eating pizza, and trying to include something for everyone. Even though the yearbook room isn't a far away galaxy, it seems like it when you don't leave for six or eight hours at a time, sitting in the same chair watching the same things cross the desk or computer time and time again, while trying to write things that everyone can understand, and enjoy.

Editor-in-chief Rebecca Moore and Layout Editor Sean MacDonald merge ideas on running a continuous theme throughout the book.

Shining Stars

Leading the Jean G. Findlater Chapter of the National Honor Society of Norton High School, this year's officers and members have expended vast amounts of effort and time in preparing for fundraisers and events. The society has collected canned goods for the needy families of Norton in continuing their tradition of community service. In addition to this service, they have held fundraisers to help raise money for scholarships which are awarded to seniors who anticipate continuing their educations. The annual Semi-formal is also included in the responsibilities of the National Honor Society. Without the guidance of the adviser, Mrs. Dolores Robbins, none of these activities would be possible. All of them are topped off by the induction of new members in the spring based upon the criteria of scholarship, service, character, and leadership.

Lighting her candle of Scholarship, Service, Character, and Leadership, Amber Peters becomes one of the newest members of the National Honor Society.

"Balloons, balloons, everywhere! Wherever I look, balloons are there!" thinks Christine Ravinski.

Artistic Excellence

To be a part of the Renaissance Chapter of the National Art Honor Society at Norton High School takes much more than artistic talent. Good grades in all subjects and a giving spirit are also necessities for induction. Throughout the school year, the society takes part in numerous activities such as window painting, pumpkin decorating, and the Homecoming

Semi-formal. Many of these activities are fundraisers to raise money for scholarships and are given to students pursuing further education. New members embrace their work and title bestowed on them, looking forward to meetings and activities in the future, as well as receiving their sacred "honor pass."

Write It!

Quill and Scroll members promote creative writing through the information posted on the bulletin board in the English wing. Submitting student works such as essays, poems, and creative writing brings the opportunity for scholarships and prize money to those students who participate.

Organization of the Quill and Scroll bulletin board is helped along by Phil Jennings.

Fluency in more than one language is becoming an essential ability in our ever growing multicultural society. The Spanish Honor Society students have opened up a whole new world for themselves through the Spanish language. These talented students aid in the planning of the Semi-formal and participate in the combined honor societies' trip to New York City or Washington D.C.. El lengua es un arte.

Extra, Extra!!

Student journalists aspiring to tell us all there is to know, do so in the Norton High School newspaper, The Lance. Members scribble anxiously about the latest in school, town and the world. The staff meets at various occasions throughout the year, gathering their information. Selected members attended the Yankee Pen Conference at Northeastern University in order to pick up "pointers" for a good publication. Maybe someday we'll see some of their faces when we turn on the newscast!

The Student Council at Norton High School works to create a positive atmosphere for fellow students, organizing Spirit Week as well as aiding in the preparations for Homecoming. They also hold an annual drive during the holiday season, collecting contributions from the entire school which are donated to the Fire Department's Santa Fund. This past year, a record high of more than $1,000 was donated thanks to the giving spirit of the students here. Keep it up Norton! It is greatly appreciated!

Whirling, Swirling, Twirling

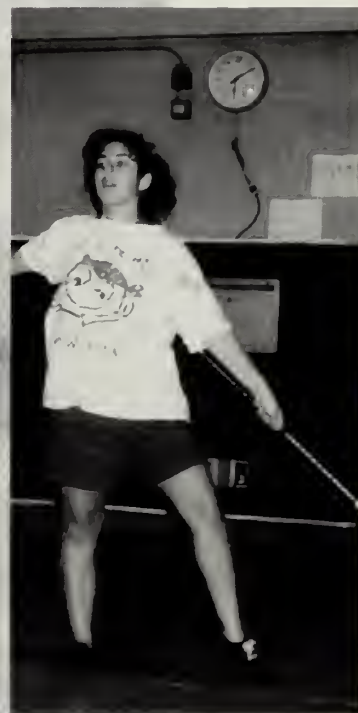

beginning in September and continuing until April, the Norton Majorettes keep themselves busy practicing and competing with batons in hand. At schools throughout the area, the four squads: Novice, B, A, and Open, compete for trophies every Sunday from February to April. With their themes and routines, Danielle Sicard and her assistants help coach these girls from grades five to twelve through grueling practices all year long.

Sounds of Music

“At 38, mark time for four, then left flank until the second ending.” No, this isn’t some weird code system, but the sort of thing one might hear at a practice of the Norton Lancer Marching Band. The ‘bandoes’ spend long hours of practice from August to November putting together their halftime field show, a complex equation that combines precision playing and faultless twirling with an intricate array of marching maneuvers. Led by drum major Amber Peters, majorette captain Amy Simpson, and colorguard captain Erica Zitta, the band also marches in the Veterans’ Day and Memorial Day parades, participates in UMASS Band Day, and travels to the elementary schools to encourage aspiring band members. Though not as large as it has been in past years, the band is certainly still large in sound and spirit.

The Norton High School Marching Band displays its great talent and capabilities for the hometown fans.

During half-time, Ginny Jerome plays a light tune for the football fans.

Trumpet player Pat Drane exhibits the perfect playing form.

Piccolo players Christine Ravinski and Brandi Love entertain all within listening distance at a home football game.

Colorguard Christen Geary concentrates on performing a perfect routine planned out for her by fellow captains.

Keeping the band in order and in time, Amher Peters stands atop her Drum Major pedestal.

Some people might never consider taking math tests in their spare time, but that's exactly what the members of the Math Team do. Once a month they meet to take New England Math League tests, and the highest scores are sent to a regional tally. From simple addition to complex matrices and derivatives, the math team has all of the answers.

Ultimate concentration is needed for Jenn Sireci to complete the Math Team competition test.

Chemistry, biology, earth science and physics all combine in the events of Science Olympiad. Members of the team participate in all sorts of activities, from identifying rocks to examining cells to building cars and towers. Some take written tests, some analyze laboratory experiments, and others build machines to accomplish various unusual tasks. This team of aspiring scientists has fared well, bringing home medals from each meet.

Alive and Kicking

The Lancer soccer teams achieved many successes this year. They accomplished this with the help of their coaches, captains, and the increasing skill and talent of each player. Coached by Roger Ramsey, the boys' team beat the odds and made it to the State Championship with the best boys' varsity soccer record Norton High has even seen. The girls' team, despite many hardships, was successful in the building of their skills with a strong base for next year's season, which will hopefully be filled with many victories. These successes would not have been possible without the never-ending effort of both the coaches, the players, and the long hours of practice put in by both teams. We wish both teams even more success in the seasons to come!

Attempting to stop the opposing team from scoring their only goal, Sara Pray successfully prevents the soccer ball from reaching the net.

Sliding across the field, Donny Dumont attempts to steal the ball from his opponent, while Jared Romanowicz looks on to see what his next move will be.

Colin Ramsey knows that the key to success is using your head.

Looking to set up the next Norton goal, Steve Reardon checks his passing options.

Setting up for Victory

The Lancer volleyball team has grown accustomed to very successful seasons. However, this would not have been made possible without the strong support and guidance of coach Peter Leddy or the skill, dedication, and endless effort of each player. They put in many long, hard hours of practice to perfect their great skills. The team held on and gave their all until the end of each match, sacrificing themselves for the sake of the team they were so proud to be a part of. This pride could not be crushed, and this was seen in the great season the team had. This year's volleyball team kept its winning tradition going. With the support of the coach, players, and fans, hopefully the team will be even more successful in the seasons to come.

Trying to keep the ball alive, Jen Trofimovics digs it out.

Looking to set a teammate up, Kelly Portanova sends the ball towards the net.

Front row: Christy Hinchey, Natasha Aptt, Lisa Byrnes, Kelly Portanova, Jessica Fahey, Jen Dion.

Keeping her focus on the ball, Lisa Byrnes times her jump perfectly in order to tip the ball over the net.

"We Say Purple"

No athletic event would be complete without spirit, and Norton High's cheerleaders are at their prime when leading a crowd in morale raising cheers. Full of pride and energy, these energetic cheerleaders never fail to show a smile as they encourage the team to victory.

They also perform an exciting show at halftime, using intricate moves and formations that charge the crowd's energy for the second half. They put in many strenuous hours in their never-ending dedication to the spirit and the success of Norton High School events.

Front row: Rebecca Lincoln, Shana Gradie, Holly Quaglia, Dawn Fletcher.
Back row: Thuy-Anh Nguyen, Tara Prentice, Alicia Bennette, Amanda Galante, Kendra Sands.

"Maybe someday they'll let me be the human catapult," thinks Amanda Galante as she watches her sister, Sarah.

With support from her trusty sidekicks, Megan Brazao feels like she is on top of the world.

Bubbling with enthusiasm, the cheerleaders leave the field to continue playing spirit for the second half of the game.

Kicking Up the Dust

At the sound of the starting pistol, they're off! Legs turn into a blur as they try to find footing in the pack. They're racing, fighting for their place. The pack thins out, and the runners must rely on stamina for most of the race. Then comes the finish, the runners getting faster and faster as they approach, giving it their all with the knowledge that the race is now short. Suddenly, they're up and through, and the race is over. The satisfaction of knowing that they completed the race, a feeling shared by all runners, is the motivation behind Cross Country. Though this season's team was small, the effort that they gave was certainly not. The runners fared well this season, and they look with high hopes towards next year.

With a determination to cross the finish line, Phil Jennings puts all of his might into the home stretch.

Certain on winning first place, Pat Drane waits for the perfect opportunity to sprint past his opponent.

Concentration and a clear mind help drive Erin Maginnis to success.

The two cross country teams will begin at the same mark, but only the best will finish first.

As the pressure mounts, Chris Henson presses on to the finish line with great determination.

Stretching before a big run, Linde Arnold attempts to visualize the outcome of the meet.

With a clenched fist and a firm expression, Jason Lincks dashes ahead.

Troy Almeida decides to "branch out" with his style of cross country practice.

On A Collision Course

"Football isn't a contact sport, it's a collision sport..." -Vince Lombardi

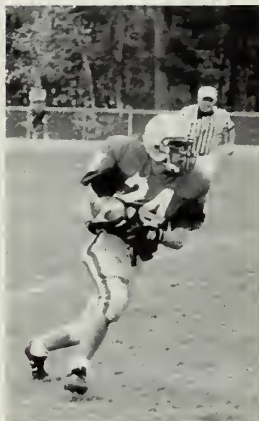

In September, football practice is already well underway. Many "players" attend try-outs, hoping for the chance to become the next legend on one of Norton High's best teams. For those who make the team, hard work, dedication, and practices in all kinds of weather lie ahead. With many loyal fans cheering them on, they meet their competitors on the field of battle. Despite the many injuries that the team suffered, the players pulled together and gave their opponents something to worry about. Led by senior powerhouses Chris Perry, Jim O'Neill, and Bob Mills, and the up and coming talent of underclassmen, the team posed a formidable threat to the rest of the South Shore League.

Ready to dominate the other team, Chris Perry leads the Lancers onto the field.

After the handoff, Shane McAulay looks for daylight.

Calling the play, Keith Callahan gets ready for the snap from Greg King.

Under the leadership of Coach Howard Kelley and the team captains, the boys' basketball team rose to the occasion to have a successful season. A young but skilled team, the boys' will keep building their skills to have an even stronger team. The girls' basketball team under the guidance of Albert

Nuttall and the team captains, made another memorable Lady Lancer season. Without the cheering fans and the players' dedication and skill, the teams would not have had the successful season it did. The successes of both teams did not come easy, however. They came from the seemingly endless hours of practice and the effort given by the coaches and players of each team. Hopefully, both the girls and the boys teams will be more successful in the many seasons ahead.

Racing towards the basket with a watchful eye, Dave Sicard slips past an opponent.

Head for Home!

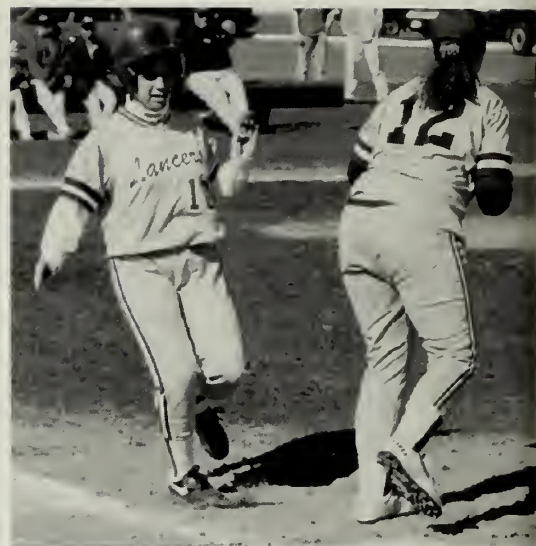

America's national pastime has always been a powerful entity in Norton High School athletics. Under the coaching of Dave Mollica, the team has soared to new dimensions in athletic prowess. The impressive hitting strengths of Chris Perry, the mighty pitching ability of Rick Dudley and the excellent leadership of Eric Watters, Allan

George and Jeff LaConte, have all been indispensable in the achievements of the team. Norton can certainly look back on the '94 South Shore League Championship with pride. Now, hopefully, our nation can maintain an active baseball season without another Str-r-r-r-rike!

"Love All, Serve All"

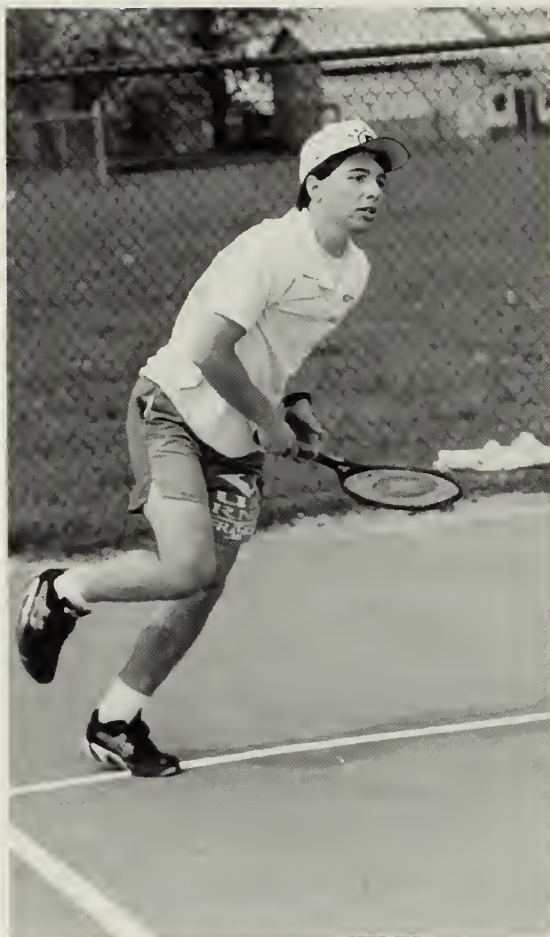

Under the strong leadership of coaches Terri Mullen and Brian Dalrymple, both the girls' and boys' tennis teams greatly improved. Melissa Cole proved to be quite a challenge to her adversaries. Melissa and Captains Carrie Zawislak and Kristen Sunde provided exceptional leadership, support, and enthusiasm for the other members of the team.

For the boy's team, first singles player was Craig Johnson, who proved to be an important asset towards team advancement. Jack Coffey and Marc Castrechini pooled their resources as first doubles players to achieve an energetic, charismatic combination, and Captain Mike Mackinder helped teach new, talented members such as Donny Dumont and Tony Yukna to provide a strong base for the younger portion of the team.

Coming to the net, Jessica Kusza aims her lethal spike at the opponent.

"Track-fest"

The 1994 track season was one of much personal success, with each member of the team striving to better their previous best. Observers at the meets soon noted the fleet-footedness of Luke Adams, Nick Sbardella, and Jenn Trofimovics, and the long distance power of Phil Jennings, Erin Maginnis, and Joe Scherma. Looking to the skies, they also saw javelins, discuses, and shot-puts lofted through the air by the mighty arms of Jim Blanchard, Jen Dion, and Larry Taylor. It was a season of individual success for many, and a competitive season of good sportsmanship for all.

"Yes! I'm so far ahead of everyone, I'm the only one on the track!" Phil Jennings thinks to himself.

"Oh, no problem," Greg King ponders as the Lancers clinch the shot-put event.

"I hope I put enough into this jump — we really need a win today," Jenn Trofimovics thinks hopefully.

Spaghetti. . .And Stuff

With the tremendous cooking skills of many, and the bionic cleaning skills of a few, led by the expertise of Norm Babcock, the spaghetti supper went extremely well. With the unending help of Mr. Dery, Mrs. Hensley, Mr. Leddy, and Mrs. Vital, the senior class advisers and the class of '95 made this grand evening of meatballs and spaghetti a wonderful evening. With a Halloween-type theme, beginning with dimmed lights creating an eerie effect, the scene included hideous monsters on the wall, created by the Art I students, and pointed witch hats on the decorated tables. People came in droves from all of Norton and its surrounding areas to partake of the delicious spaghetti and refreshing drinks. The gourmet meal was topped off with an extravagant selection of scrumptious desserts, ranging from small homemade cupcakes and brownies to wonderfully frosted layer cakes to melt-in-your-mouth chocolate mousse cake. All of these delectable ingredients helped make the Class of '95 Spaghetti Supper one of the most successful events to date.

Having seemingly too good a time Andy Janczinski stirs his vat of spaghetti, while James O'Neill concentrates on stirring his own.

The eniors of Tomorrow

Class of '96 Juniors

Junior year is a year of laughter, tears, lots of work, a little chaos, and a lot of times and people worth remembering. The members of the junior class slowly awaken to the realization that their days left in the classroom are numbered, and soon they will be sent out into a whole new life. Until then, though, they have a whole lot to do. On top of the schoolwork that the juniors must contend with, they also found time to have jobs and meet with friends and do class activities. For the third consecutive year, the Class of 1996 dominated the pep rally wall-decorating competition. There were also class fundraisers, including candy sales, washing cars at McDonalds, and handing out flyers at Foxboro Stadium during some of the Patriots' games. The class put together the '95 prom, "In Your Eyes". These juniors were also given a shocking jolt of reality with the October death of class president Tony Yukna. The class pulled together and rallied their support for their fellow classmates and the Yukna family. And so the year was a turbulent one, with jubilant good times and devastating bad ones, ending with coming visions of senior year and whatever the future may bring.

Reading silently during English class, Cheralyn Limpus and Kristine McHugh daydream about next period... lunch!

"Oh, dear Julius, please don't leave us!" Kristine Newcomb, Lisa Moschella, and Bill Redding plead during a reenactment of Julius Caesar.

Fast as the rolling seasons bring
The hour of fate to those we love,

Each pearl that leaves the broken string
Is set in Friendship's crown above.

As narrower grows the earthly chain,
The circle widens in the sky;

These are our treasures that remain, but those are stars that beam on high.

— Oliver Wendell Holmes, Sr.

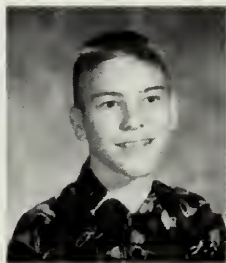

Class of '97 Sophomores

Students entering sophomore year have the satisfaction of knowing that they have successfully completed one rigorous year of high school, and are no longer the bottom of the totem pole. They, too, can join in the rituals of picking on the freshmen. Some sophomores add jobs to their already busy schedules, and others take the opportunity to try out new sports and join new activities. Others also begin to seriously think about life after high school, considering different majors and colleges, or the military, or other occupations. The sophomores are also called to participate in class activities including fund raisers, class elections, and the planning of next year's prom.

Paying close attention for any details she may have missed, Kristin Phinney takes vigorous notes for tomorrow's test.

Subject to Teach

Without the efforts of such dedicated faculty and staff, Norton High School would not be the academic pillar that it is. From organizing class barbecues to helping students write essays for college applications, the work put forth by all staff has been outstanding. With the arrival of our new principal, Miss Susan Carney, improvements in attendance and discipline came of utmost importance. Existing and new rules were strictly enforced for the overall benefit of the school. Although anxiety and tensions rose as the new school year approached, cooperation and support by both students and faculty helped endurance levels and success became our sweetest revenge.

For Amy

*The tiny seedling falls, unguarded
Slowly wilting, unregarded
Fights for life until transplanted
In our garden's fertile grounds.*

*Nurtured now with love and care,
The leaves unfold in green fanfare,
Our rose begins to bud, undaunted,
Its bursting color now resounds.*

*Determination, strength and power
Have grown to be the brightest flower.
Heady fragrance, brilliant hue,
Brightens up our every day.*

*Through Summer's warmth and Winter's freeze,
Springtime's rain and Autumn's breeze,
Our rose has grown as very few,
To be the center of our bouquet.*

Words of wisdom:
I say, with this book, all the time I spent here as the Editor, working every Monday and Wednesday until 9pm, and sometimes longer
I hope everybody loves this book!!!!

Paranolds are people too: they have their own problems.
It's easy to critcize, but if everybody hated you, you'd be paranold too. -Dave Wagner

Last August, we, the editors of Sojourn '95 gave up a week of fun in the sun to begin the monumental task of putting together the pages that conclude here. After great consideration and long debate, we decided that this year's book should reflect the force of change, a force that is both constant and ever-changing. Having settled that matter, we dedicated ourselves to many long hours of work, secluded from the rest of the world as we labored to produce a jumble of layouts, cropped pictures, captions, and body copy that eventually culminated with this, the 38th volume of Sojourn, Subject to Change. Though our hours of toiling in seclusion prevented us from witnessing first-hand some of the many changes that occurred over the year, we have done our best to put together a good representation of the year in general and the changes that affected it. It is our hope that some day, far in the future, you may look back at this book, and realize just how dynamic change is, was, or will be.

Sojourn '95 was published by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. Created on the Macintosh version of Page, Type, and Indexvision, the selling price was thirty-seven dollars - (paid-in-full) or forty dollars - (in installments). Three hundred-fifty yearbooks were sold.

The grained cover was designed on Typestyle with Gold and Gold-Giltz foil for embossing. End sheets are on tan parchment with applied burgundy ink. The paper type is 80lb. enamel.

Opening headlines are in Seville Bold Italic with copy in Seville Italic. Night activities are in Chancery, with the extra-curricular in Ballardvale, and headlines in Muse Script. The sports headlines are in Durante, with copy in Times Roman. The senior section is in Malibu, with headlines in Malibu Bold, while underclassmen copy and names are in Garamond. The faculty is typed in Nouveau, and Friends Forever is in Nouveau Italic.

Spot color used in the Opening is in burgundy, while Duotone was used for the school picture. Gold spot color was also applied in certain areas.

Pop Prints were used throughout the book, subject to change with each section. Dropped caps can be found throughout the book at the beginning of the body copy.

The staff and editors would like to thank Mrs. Natalie Spence, our customer service representative from Taylor Publishing Company - for her never ending advice and help through our deadlines - and Joe Geoffrey of Chestnut Hill Studios for pictures, film, and most importantly for his patience.

We would also like to thank Mrs. Gagnon, and Mrs. Flynn, our advisers for their patience, support, and ideas. We wouldn't have accomplished this tremendous task without them!

Thanks to our many helpers and staff who have come and gone throughout the year with information, new ideas and sometimes support-just to keep us sane!

Looks that relate

Across the country, school administrators attempted to reduce violence in schools by outlawing professional sports team wear that mirrored gang garb. They revised dress codes and started a trend of requiring all students to wear uniforms. Most students dressed in layered, baggy or tight clothes in plaids and earth-tones.
